About Us

Foreign exchange is the trading of different national currencies or units of account. It is important because the exchange rate, the price of one currency in terms of another, helps to determine a nation's economic health and hence the well-being of all the people residing in it. Trading is conducted over the interbank market which currency trades 24 hours / 5 days a week. This is the largest trading market with a globally daily turnover estimated to exceed US 5 trillion dollars, this market determines FX for every currency.
